Florida Gulf Coast University

RFQ - Construction Management Florida Gulf Coast University
Academic Building 10 (AB10)

Introduction

Florida Gulf Coast University Board of Trustees (“University”), announces that Professional Services in the discipline of Construction Management will be required for the project listed below:

Project No. RFQ 24R-003

Project and Location: Florida Gulf Coast University
Academic Building 10 (“AB10”)

10501 FGCU Blvd South

Fort Myers, Florida 33965-6565

The selected respondent will be responsible for the scheduling and coordination in both design and construction phases and be responsible for the successful, timely, and economic completion of the referenced project.

Project Description

The University, specifically the Marieb College of Health & Human Services (“MCHHS”) is a major supplier of the health professions workforce for the region’s large and expanding healthcare industry. In the last decade, the University has doubled the size of its enrollment in MCHHS, and in the last five years alone, total degrees awarded within Marieb College have increased 61%. However, with our area’s expanding and diverse population, looming retirements, and shrinking workforce, the demand for healthcare workers will continue to be critically high. The University is poised to meet the demand for baccalaureate through doctoral education in a variety of healthcare fields, with the addition of critically needed space on campus in which to train the next generation of health care providers.

To meet this need, the University is planning the next academic building on campus to primarily serve the health sciences. This building will be the largest academic building on campus to date at approximately 171,750 square feet, and it will be designed as a state-of-the-art facility equipped for the health care education technology of the future.

Specialized and dedicated teaching, technology, and research labs are critical components in the successful education of future healthcare professionals and practitioners. The discovery, testing and application of new therapies by faculty and students provide the nexus pivotal to improve the lives of millions of people living in Florida and beyond. These labs will meet the unique needs of multiple health-related programs offered by the University, including physical therapy, nursing, advanced nurse practitioners at the doctoral level, physician assistant, occupational therapy, behavioral health, including counseling and social work, clinical laboratory sciences, health administration and sciences, and public health. Further, they will enrich the interprofessional collaboration experience necessary to support future healthcare providers.

The new Health Sciences building will allow the University to continue to expand capabilities in research, teaching, practice, primary care clinical services provided to the general student population, and enrollment in strategic ways to meet the unique needs of Southwest Florida. The University also intends to address the needs of the senior living community and the special challenges faced with a rapidly aging population within this space.

Academic Building 10 will be approximately 171,750 gross square feet, four stories in height and pursue LEED Silver Certification. The building will include a large lecture room, multipurpose rooms, a variety of laboratory spaces for the four Departments and one School in the MCHHS, Healthcare Simulation Suite, advising offices, faculty offices and a variety of conference rooms.

The design of the building will be complementary to other campus buildings yet have a distinct appearance of its own and be located on currently existing Parking Lot 7 on the Southeast corner of the campus main loop. The location may be found on the campus map here: <https://www.fgcu.edu/campusmap/> This project will require a SFWMD permit modification and building permitting through FGCU Facilities Planning. Site and building permitting through Lee County Development is not required.
