The Petition requests an interpretation of Section 633.071(1), Florida Statutes, relating to inspection reports and tagging of preengineered systems and specifically asks the Division of

If yes, should there be any indicating notes on the tag declaring that the system will not function and a hazard exists? 4. Once it has been determined by the servicing contractor that a system does not function by any means, what is the Contractor's responsibility to the owner in regards to the hazards (no cooking); considering the system will not function to extinguish a fire under the hood? 5. Is the Contractor authorized /mandated to inform the owner that cooking under this hood is not allowed nor is it safe? 6. The inspecting authority by statute has 30 days to notify the AHJ (fire official) of this nonfunctioning system. Who is responsible within those 30 days before notification to the AJH for any injuries, loss of life or property damage in the occupancy due to a nonfunctional preengineered system failing to extinguish the fire under the hood? 7.
